Learn to fly airplanes at Reedley College!

There is a shortage of pilots in the United States. Entry level jobs as flight instructors and airline copilots are going unfilled due to lack of trained pilots coming out of pilot training.

"Major airlines are seeing dramatic retirement numbers (mandated by law at age 65) and are hiring regional airline pilots to fill their flight decks at record rates. Regional airlines can't keep up with the loss of pilots flowing to mainline carriers with so few qualified applicants. . .

Our industry needs more pilots. . ."

- Regional Airline Association President
Faye Malarkey Black

Reedley College offers a complete program for professional pilot training, including ground school, simulator, and flight lab courses. Ground school and simulator courses are taught at the Reedley College campus, in Reedley. The flight lab courses are conducted at Fresno-Yosemite International Airport in Fresno.

Flight Science

Purpose

The Flight Science Program at Reedley College provides students with the academic knowledge and flight training experience necessary to become a professional airplane pilot and flight instructor. The curriculum is designed to accommodate students with no previous flying experience. Courses will systematically prepare individuals to test for the certificates and ratings required to operate airplanes as a pilot. The program takes six semesters to complete. It is recommended to take flight courses through the summer. At the end of the program, the successful graduate will hold a commercial airplane pilot certificate, an airplane flight instructor certificate, and be eligible for a job as a flight instructor/pilot.

Overview

Airline and commercial airplane pilots fly and navigate airplanes. Airline pilots fly for airlines that transport people and cargo on a fixed schedule. Commercial pilots fly aircraft for other purposes, such as charter flights, rescue operations, firefighting, aerial photography, and aerial application, also known as crop dusting.

After graduation from Reedley College's Flight Science program, students meet the qualifications to apply for jobs as flight instructors. After two years as a flight instructor, students can meet the qualifications to apply for a job as an airline co-pilot.

A student enters the Reedley College Flight Science degree program at 18 years old and graduates at age 20. This student immediately gets his/her first flying job as a paid flight instructor. After two years professional work experience as a flight instructor, the graduate starts working as a regional airline copilot at age 22. By age 26, this graduate is an airline captain.

- Federal financial aid is available for those who qualify.
- Veterans benefits are available for those who qualify.
